ConstructConnect Acquired by Roper Technologies

Combines with On Center Software to Bring Powerful Integrated Solutions to the Construction Industry

CINCINNATI, OH and THE WOODLANDS, TX (PRWEB) October 31, 2016

ConstructConnect, a leading US and Canadian based construction information and technology company, announced today that it has been acquired by Roper Technologies. Roper's On Center Software business will work closely with ConstructConnect to explore opportunities to integrate product roadmaps and deliver expanded value to our customers.

"I'm extremely excited about this transaction and its positive impact on the evolution of our business and the advancement of our industry," said Dave Conway, ConstructConnect's President and CEO. "Roper has a proven track record of growing software businesses through innovation and continued investment. Roper's ownership will further extend our strong commitment to our customers and employees."

"The On Center team and our customers will benefit from Roper's acquisition of ConstructConnect," remarked Angelo Castelli, On Center Software's President. "Bringing these two platforms together provides an enhanced suite of integrated applications and project information to all of our customers."

"We are excited to work closely with On Center Software," added Mr. Conway. "ConstructConnect's powerful network, construction project data and documents, combined with On Center's market-leading takeoff, estimating and project management tools, will enable our customers to improve efficiencies and drive better results."

"ConstructConnect has been a pioneer in providing new software tools to the construction industry with their cloud-based collaborative network, bringing construction project participants together to access and share information," said Brian Jellison, Roper's Chairman, President and CEO. "We look forward to working with the ConstructConnect and On Center teams to build ever more innovative solutions for the construction industry."

ConstructConnect was previously owned by private equity firms Genstar Capital and Warburg Pincus. Aeris Partners and Guggenheim served as financial advisors to ConstructConnect on the transaction.
